

The New Millennium

This novel is set in the future when it becomes necessary to pull down what we have created. We are living now in a computerised autocracy and it can only get worse. The old saying You reap what you sow applies here. Look what we are sowing, in this, The New Millennium. We have to deal with computerised monsters every day of our lives. Great technology, love it myself, but how are we using it? To the benefit of society or to allow the system to control us? If you are happy with it, that is fine, if you do not like it, come to the frightening future we are creating and help me destroy it.
