

Crystal Mansion: Valley Of The Shadow Of Time

Nothing is wrong with time travel if you have the right people along. Five young women in their mid-twenties, and one Saint Bernard dog find a way back to the year 1962. Humorous, yet thought provoking, Brian Pennington and his dog Port prepare the voyage into the past. Brian spends his last days unraveling the information needed that Port possessed. Five young women that Brian calls the family help him relive his past by returning to his obsessive dream of yesterday. Each person had their own thoughts and dreams of the year 1962. Brian is still in love with his teenage girlfriend that died tragically ten years before. A shocking revelation is revealed two days before Brians departure for the past about Caroline. Brians deep hatred for his own present time ignites a journey of a dream to a more peaceful period in his life. Called the last of the untainted age, 1962 is the cross over from a land of calm to the chaos of the sixties. Crystal Mansion becomes a time travel romance novel, with a politic overtone of the rebellious sixties generation.
