

The Tower in my Town: A collection of poems by Corin Bryant

Have you ever felt a chill in Summer? A chill that is unwell and unwelcome while the rest of the sky is blue? Have you ever felt something is amiss, awry or not right when all about you others seem fine? For many years these brief moments of horror haunted me, taunted me, I wanted to know where they came from and why. The question of Why? haunts me still and it is these thoughts that become poems. This is a collection of the poems I have written over many years, often when I have had a thought that could not resolve itself in other ways. There is a Tower in my Town Ten floors up No floors down. What it wants from me I do not know.
