

Poems From A Mother

At nearly forty I decided that there were a few dreams that I had always had and whilst some of them had been achieved, such as the birth of my three beautiful sons. There were a few things that I had put in the cupboard, as it were and labeled under the heading of, Yes well one day but not really likely. I started to show a few people that I trusted my poetry and the feed back that I got from this ranged from the positive to the, why on earth havent you published these. Like many people do I fell into the, dont be silly who would want to read this, trap. Well it seems there are people that would and I hope that you will read and enjoy and go away from the experience with the knowledge and power to know, that not all of the dreams, that we as mothers and wives put in that cupboard, should stay there. Some times it is good to get let them out to see the light of day, and who knows what might happen
