

Wondering

These are all poems that were in one way shape or form that have inspired me to write about them. They were things that happened and should not have happened to anyone who cares about the innocent and good. Things that should not happen to the innocent and they make you think and wonder why. For the past 20 years there is something that you just cant change no matter what you say and do, and the only thing that you can do is write about them and let other people know that these kinds of situations can be averted. Sometimes these situations are out of a persons control, but there are a lot of cases that can be controlled and steered onto the path of righteousness.
